

Computer Keyboard

The computer keyboard is a standard input device used to enter text and commands into a computer system. It connects to computers and laptops, providing a user-friendly interface for typing and data entry.

Overview

Product Overview

This computer keyboard is designed to provide a reliable and efficient typing experience for professional environments. Built with durability and ergonomic considerations in mind, it serves as a versatile input device for various computing tasks. Its streamlined design ensures it fits seamlessly into any workspace, offering consistent performance for daily office or industrial applications.

General Information

Device Type

Input Device • Peripheral

Product Name

Computer Keyboard