

Programmable Identification Card

This is a programmable identification card used for secure access. It can be programmed for various applications.

Product Overview

Programmable Identification Card

This programmable identification card is designed for versatile use in professional B2B environments. Engineered for efficiency and reliability, the card offers seamless integration into security and access control systems. Its high-quality construction ensures long-term durability in varied operational conditions.

Technical Features

Classification	Programmable, Identification, Security Access
System Compatibility	Yes