

Air Distribution Box

This air distribution box is designed for use in vehicle air conditioning systems. It effectively channels and distributes air within the vehicle.

Product Overview

Air Distribution Box

The Air Distribution Box is a specialized component designed for efficient airflow management within HVAC or ventilation systems. Engineered for durability and precise air control, this unit facilitates balanced air delivery across connected ducts. Its robust construction ensures reliable performance in diverse environmental conditions.

Technical Specifications

Component Type

Air Distribution Box