

Corded and Cordless Telephone

The telephone includes a corded handset with a base station and a cordless handset with a charging cradle. It is designed for both office and home use, providing corded and cordless communication.

Product Overview

Dual-Function Communication System

This versatile telephone system provides both corded and cordless functionality, making it an ideal choice for busy office environments or residential use. The base station features a clear display and a robust keypad for reliable communication, while the included cordless handset offers the flexibility to move around while talking. Designed for efficiency, this unit combines wired stability with wireless convenience.

Technical Features

Included Components

- Base station with keypad and display
- Corded handset
- Cordless handset
- Charging cradle for cordless handset

System Type	Corded, Cordless
-------------	------------------

Model Name	INDUSTRIAL 88
------------	---------------