

Geographic Surveying Instrument

Geographic surveying instruments are used to measure angles and distances on the Earth's surface. These instruments are designed for high precision and accuracy in various surveying applications.

Product Overview

Professional Geographic Surveying Instrument

This durable and classic surveying instrument is designed for precision and reliability in professional environments. Featuring a robust enameled steel construction, it offers a smooth, glossy surface that is easy to maintain and resistant to environmental wear. Its design ensures long-lasting performance, making it a dependable tool for accurate geographic data collection and surveying tasks.

Physical Properties

Material	Enameled Steel
Surface Finish	Glossy
Durability Features	Scratch Resistant, Stain Resistant, Corrosion Resistant

Design & Compatibility

Shape	Rectangular
Installation Compatibility	Standard plumbing connections