

Home Security System Panel with Keypad

This home security system panel features a keypad and display screen. It is designed for access control and alarm system management.

Product Overview

Professional Home Security Control

This home security system panel is engineered for robust access control and alarm management. Featuring an integrated keypad and display screen, it is designed to meet the rigorous demands of telecommunication engineering applications and foreign engineering contracting projects. The unit ensures reliable security monitoring and user-friendly operation for professional installations.

Technical Details

Patent Number	ZL200930143636.1
Primary Applications	Telecommunication Engineering, Foreign Engineering Contracting, Access Control, Alarm Management

Features

Interface Components

- Integrated Keypad
- Display Screen
- Card Reader