

Hospital Corded Telephone with Antimicrobial Surface

This hospital corded telephone is a specialized communication device designed for healthcare environments. It features antimicrobial surfaces to prevent the spread of germs, a clear keypad, and programmable speed dial buttons.

Product Overview

Hospital-Grade Communication

The AUB 200 is a specialized corded telephone engineered specifically for healthcare environments. It features a robust, user-friendly design that prioritizes reliability and hygiene, incorporating antimicrobial surfaces to help prevent the spread of germs. With essential functions like call hold, redial, and programmable speed dial, this device ensures clear, efficient communication for medical staff and patients alike.

Key Features

Hygiene Standards
Antimicrobial Surface

Supported Functions

- Call Hold
- Redial
- Volume Adjustment
- Programmable Speed Dial

Technical Specifications

Design Focus	Hospital Environment, Robust Construction, Corded
Usability	Clear, easily readable keypad