

Internal Computer Data Cable

This computer cable is designed for internal data connections. It features a three-pronged connector on one end and a flanged connector on the other.

