

Self-Contained Emergency Lighting Unit with Fluorescent Tube

This self-contained emergency lighting unit features a fluorescent tube lamp. It incorporates a rechargeable battery for automatic operation upon mains failure, providing continuous lighting.

Product Overview

Reliable Emergency Illumination

The XT-586 is a high-performance self-contained emergency lighting unit engineered for critical safety applications. Featuring a dependable fluorescent tube lamp, the unit provides automatic, consistent illumination the moment mains power fails. Its robust, compact construction and integrated rechargeable battery system ensure easy installation and long-term reliability in various commercial and residential settings.

Technical Specifications

Light Source	Fluorescent Tube
Power System	Rechargeable Battery
Operation Mode	Automatic upon mains failure

Certifications and Applications

Key Features

- Self-contained design
- Easy installation
- Durable construction
- Compact profile

Suitable Environments	Commercial, Residential
-----------------------	-------------------------