

USB Type-A Data and Charging Cable

These USB cables are designed for data transfer and charging. They feature a standard USB Type-A male connector on one end for connecting to computers, chargers, or other compatible devices.

Product Overview

Versatile Connectivity Solution

This USB Type-A data and charging cable is designed for reliable performance in various electronic applications. Featuring a standard male connector, it offers seamless compatibility with computers, power adapters, and peripheral devices. The availability of multiple jacket types, including durable braided options and standard PVC, ensures suitability for diverse industrial and commercial environments.

Technical Specifications

Core Functions

- Data Transfer
- Device Charging

Connector Type	USB Type-A Male
Jacket Materials	Braided, PVC

Product Features

Identification Features

Color-coded jackets • Easy organization • Visual cable management