

USB VoIP Phone Handset

The USB VoIP phone handset is a computer peripheral for VoIP communication. It connects to a computer via USB and functions as a handset for making and receiving calls through software-based phone systems.

Product Overview

Professional VoIP Communication

This USB VoIP handset is a dedicated computer peripheral designed to streamline software-based communication. Featuring an ergonomic design for extended use, it provides a familiar telephone experience for users of VoIP software. The device includes a numeric keypad, dedicated call controls, and an integrated display for caller ID, ensuring efficient call management in any professional environment.

Technical Specifications

Primary Use

VoIP Communication • Software-based Phone Systems

Connectivity

USB

Setup

Plug-and-play

Key Features

Numeric Keypad, Call Control Buttons, Caller ID Display, Ergonomic Design