

Video Conferencing Network Communication Device

This network communication device features a built-in display screen and integrated camera for video conferencing. It is designed for professional use and supports clear audio transmission and seamless network integration.

Overview

Professional Communication Solution

This advanced network communication device is engineered for high-quality video conferencing and seamless professional collaboration. Featuring an integrated camera and a built-in display screen, it offers a comprehensive solution for modern office communication needs. The device is designed with a user-friendly interface, including dedicated function keys and a navigation pad to ensure efficient operation and easy access to critical features.

Hardware Features

Control Interface

- Multiple function keys
- Navigation pad

Display	Integrated built-in display screen
Camera	Yes

Performance

Audio Capability

Clear Audio Transmission

Primary Use Case	Video Conferencing, Network Communication, Professional Office Use
------------------	--